EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN]

Financial Matters in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct 2.—There was a better feeling in financial circles to-day. Private advices report an improvement in some leading cities of the Union. Some bankers have received telegrams from Cincinnati and other Western cities to stop sending currency. The Loan Committee of the Clearing House Association are now so well satisfied with the situation that they will not only not issue more certificates but will begin to-morrow a gradual reduction of the amount outstanding.

Geo Bird Grinnell & Co, who failed to-day, were successors of Geo. B. Grinnell & Co. This house has been in existence only one month, Geo B Grinnell being a special partner in the sum of $100,000. They were largely interested in the Lake Shore and Western Union shares and it is understood their failure is owing to heavy shrinkage in those stocks which they are carrying. The late Horace F Clark was a special partner in the house and it is said that within a few days the widow of Clark had placed a large amount of securities in their hands to enable them to go on but they were too badly pressed by their creditors and obliged to close. Grinnell says the firm can and will pay every dollar and that the failure will not effect other houses to any great extent. It is uncertain whether the firm will resume or not.

NEW YORK, Oct 3.—The National Trust Company will resume on Monday.

A M Kidder & Co have settled for 60 cents on the dollar and have resumed.

The expulsion of Grinnell & Co from the Stock Exchange was caused by their refusal to answer an important question asked by the Governing Committee relative to bond proceedings.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—One of the papers this morning states that a Chinese gambling house is in existence here—the number of Chinese now in this city being quite large.

Apology to the N. Y. Tribune.

The Brooklyn Union to-night at the head of its editorial column explicitely expresses its regrets for having published statements concerning the circulation and ownership of the N. Y. Tribune, for which the Tribune, last winter, [illegible] a libel suit against it.

[illegible] Champion of America.

NEW YORK, Oct 2.—The billiard match between Garnier and Daly for the championship of America, the diamond cue and $1,000 took place to-night at Tammany Hall. The game was a 4 ball carom, upon a Collender table. Betting had been largely in favor of Daly but Garnier won in 47 innings, by a score of 1,500 to Daly's 1,224.

Inundation of a Texas Town.

GALVESTON, Texas, Oct 2.—The town of Lampasas was inundated on Saturday by a sudden rise in a creek that flows through the place. The water ran so swiftly that some twenty houses were carried away, including the postoffice and contents. Six persons are known to have been drowned.

Yellow Fever in Memphis—Lamentable State of Affairs.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 2.—There were 41 interments to-day—27 from yellow fever. The Citizen's Committee have issued an appeal to the charitable people of the country for aid to hire nurses, bury the dead and shelter orphans. Contributions may be sent by telegraph to Jno Johnson, Mayor of the city.

A Pardon of Two Modoc Prisoners.

NEW YORK, O[illegible].—The Washington special says Sl[illegible] and Barncho, [illegible] of the Indians sentenced to be hanged with Capt. Jack, will be pardoned by the President, on the ground that they were merely instruments of their chief in the Peace Commission assassination.

S[illegible] of Banks

COLUMBUS, O, Oct. 3.—The financial panic appears to have reached here just as it was over everywhere else. Rickby's Bank, a small private institution, and the Commercial Bank, also a private bank, closed this morning under a run of small depositors. There is some local excitement.

LATER.—The report that the Commercial Bank had closed doors was premature. It has simply stopped payment of large checks.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Miscellaneous.

WASHINGTON, Oct 2.—The financial situation is most encouraging.

A petition was filed in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, in the name of Clifford Merrick, against Jay Cooke and other members of the firm, to force them into involuntary bankruptcy.

The President has appointed Joseph Sachs of California, Register of the Land Office at Shasta, vice Follansbie resigned.

Announcement of the Death of Admiral Winslow.

WASHINGTON, Oct 2.—The following general order, announcing the death of Rear Admiral Winslow has been issued at the Navy Department:

WASHINGTON, Oct 1, 1873.

The Department with great regret has to announce to the naval service the death of Rear Admiral John A Winslow. The name of this distinguished officer will live in the history of his country as that of a victor in a memorable sea fight during the late war of the rebellion, which ended in the destruction of the Alabama by the Kearsarge. On the day after the receipt of this order, the flags of navy yards and stations and of all ships of war in commission will be kept at half mast from sunrise to sunset and thirteen minute guns be fired at noon ashore and afloat.

Officers of the Navy and Marine Corps will wear crape on the left arm for the usual period of thirty days.

(Signed) WM REYNOLDS,
Acting Secretary of the Navy.

Sentence of Slolux and Barncho Commuted

WASHINGTON, Oct 3.—The sentence of Slolux and Barncho, Modoc Indians, is commuted to imprisonment for life on Alcatraz Island.

At a Cabinet meeting to-day Secretary Richardson was the only absent member.

Sir Samuel Baker to Visit America.

WASHINGTON, Oct 3.—Sir Samuel Baker the African traveler and his wife will visit this country next summer.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE

Breakers Ahead.

PARIS, Oct 2.—Thiers having been notified by telegraph to-day of an impending political movement in France and that his presence is much desired here started immediately for this city.

LATER.—Thiers arrived this evening. It is stated that the Count De Chambord will arrive at Geneva from Frohsdorf on the 4th inst.

News from Africa.

LONDON, Oct 2.—Advices from Africa announce the capture of a white man by the natives while proceeding westward on the Congo river. From the description of the man Mr Chas Livingstone believes him to be his son.

Death of Sir Edwin Landseer.

LONDON, Oct 2.—Sir Edwin Landseer the celebrated painter died last night aged 73.

Specie for New York

Yesterday's steamer from Liverpool for New York took $244,000 in specie.

From London

LONDON, Oct 3.—Seven hundred and eighty five thousand dollars in bullion was shipped from Liverpool for New York yesterday, $[illegible] for Montreal.

A chimney 220 feet in height in the village of Northfleet fell to-day killing five persons and maiming a dozen others.

From Madrid

MADRID, Oct 3.—Senor Solar, Minister for the Colonies, will leave Spain on the 20th inst to visit Porto Rico and Cuba.

A dispatch from Cartagena says the insurgent frigates were not injured during the bombardment of Alicante. No one on board killed. They are taking in coal and making preparations to attack Valencia.

The Spanish Government issued orders requiring all vessels arriving at ports in Spain from Liverpool to undergo quarantine.

From Paris

PARIS, Oct [illegible].—The city has been full of political rumors to-day with regard to the political situation. The report which gained the most currency and caused a great deal of excitement was one stating that the Permanent Committee of Assembly would order that body to meet on the 14th inst and that government officials now absent from Versailles had been ordered to proceed there immediately, but dispatches from official sources in Versailles pronounce it false.

SOUTH AMERICA.

From Paraguay.

LONDON, Oct 2.—Late advices from Paraguay show that the privations of English colonists still continue and that there is great dissatisfaction.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH

The Last Scene in the Modoc War—Preparations for the Executions—The Prisoners Despondent.

JACKSONVILLE, Oct 2.—From Mr Obenchain who left Fort Klamath yesterday, we learn some of the particulars of the closing preparations for the execution of the Modocs now under sentence of death, viz: Capt Jack, Sconchin, Boston Charley, Black Jim, Boncho and Slolux. Mr Obenchain says the scaffold is erected just outside the Fort. It is built strong enough to all appearances, to hang twice as many as there are victims. The prisoners are spoken of as in good health but seem somewhat despondent at the evidences of the fate which awaits them. Riddle, of Yreka, is there. It is supposed that he will act as interpreter on the occasion as it will be necessary to translate the order of the execution to them. Mr Obenchain says the hour of the execution has been fixed at 10 o'clock to-morrow, but the ceremony of translation and other performances may defer it an hour or so.

JACKSONVILLE, Oct 3.—The Modoc execution took place to-day at Fort Klamath. Two of them, Barncho and Slolux, were reprieved last night to be imprisoned for life. Four of them, Capt Jack, Sconchin, Boston Charley and Black Jim were hung.

UTAH.

Agricultural Fair at Salt Lake.

SALT LAKE, Oct 2.—The Territorial Agricultural Fair opened here to-day. The display is unusually fine and the attendance large.

The purchase of bullion is almost entirely suspended on account of the tight money market.

SALT LAKE, Oct 3.—An incendiary fire early this morning destroyed the residence of Chas Town. Loss $2,000.

In the running race this afternoon at the Territorial Fair Grounds a boy from Montana broke his leg. He is in a dangerous condition.

NEVADA.

ELKO, Oct. 2.—J G Wiggins, the three card monte man held for shooting a soldier on the cars last Sunday, claims that he did no shooting but that the man in attempting to shoot him shot a private who stepped in between them.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 3.—The body of the little boy Kelly who was drowned last week, has been found.

Philip Kramer, a young man well known in this city, was examined in the Police Court to-day for an assault with intent to murder a man named Ray. He was held to answer. Bail fixed at $2,000.

The ship Three Brothers is nearly ready for sea. She has about 2,300 tons of grain on board and will probably be open for public inspection next Sunday.

A regular police officer named Robt Burke killed himself at midnight last night by shooting himself through the head with a revolver. He was desperately in love with a young lady, a school teacher named Katie Green. She would not marry him on account of the opposition of her aunt. On a table in his room the suicide left a note to a brother officer, as follows:

October 3d.—To Sellinger: My friend bury me. Mrs Ellen Swan, No 2,121 Mason street, is the cause of this. God forgive her—I cannot. Good bye Katie Green. Good bye mother. Good bye friends. I ask God and of all forgiveness.

(Signed) ROBERT BURKE.

He was a very efficient officer and well liked by all who knew him.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 2.—The execution of the Modocs to-morrow will be under the direction of Capt H H Hasbrouck, now in command at Fort Klamath.

Edward Flaherty, ex-Supervisor, has been sworn in as Fire Commissioner of this city.

The decision of County Judge Stanley to-day in the Bounter-Hubert contested election case virtually declares Hubert to have been elected Treasurer.

We have received from Vallejo, Sacramento and Marysville this season about 93,000 barrels of flour during September. Nineteen cargoes of wheat have cleared for England.

The members of the crew of the ship Louise were examined before the U S grand jury to-day in relation to charges against Captain Clarke and his mates.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 2.—Henry Newman was arrested by detective Coffee this evening on a charge of having stolen a horse and wagon.

Fire Marshal Durkee has taken into custody Henry Wolff, aged twelve years, accusing him of having set fire to the buildings on Fourth and Market streets last Saturday night. Evidence is conclusive on the point.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 2.—Harry Wolff, the boy accused of arson, turns out to be only six years of age. He states that he made a fire in his pa's cellar in Bush street last night to roast some potatoes. It required the united efforts of the Fire Marshal and his assistant to bring the culprit to the city prison.

Horticultural Hall is well filled to-night. The display of fruits and flowers surpasses anything ever before exhibited on the Pacific coast.

Names of the Pardoned Modocs

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 3.—It is understood that Slolux and Barncho are the Modocs pardoned by President Grant. The pardons were granted for the reason that these men acted merely as instruments of Captain Jack in the murder of the Peace Commissioners.

Interior California

SACRAMENTO, Oct 2.—Joseph Bernard, engaged in digging a ditch for the Gas Company's pipes to-day, had several ribs broken by a horse attached to a street car stumbling and falling upon him.

The money in the State Treasury was counted to-day by the State Board of Examiners with the following result: Gold coin $720,000, silver $67,[illegible], legal tenders $[illegible].

SAN JOSE, Oct 2.—At the race track to-day more than 4,000 people were present. First race trotting, free for all, purse of $600, only two started, Sam Purdy and May Howard. Purdy was the favorite. The first heat was won by Howard by several lengths in 2:[illegible]; second heat Howard beat by a length in 2:[illegible]; third heat Purdy out trotted the horse and won [illegible]; fourth heat [illegible] Howard winning by less than a neck in [illegible].

The second race for all three year olds [illegible], purse $[illegible], between [illegible] Maid and Oliver Morris, trotting, was won by the [illegible].

To-morrow the trotting race for $[illegible] for horses that never beat [illegible]: Vernon, [illegible], Elliston, Westfield, Oakland Maid, Swing, Angel and Jupiter were entered.

The second race for pacers [illegible], purse of $400. Defiance, Lady St Clair, [illegible] Voorhees and Prussian Maid were entered.

YREKA, Oct 2.—The second day of the Fair was a lively one. The articles on exhibition have largely increased and the display is very fine. The attendance is larger than ever before. The first trotting race was held this afternoon—mile heats, three in five, free for all, purse of $[illegible], $50 entrance, money divided; there were four entries: Brick Pomeroy, Lompoc, [illegible] Ward and Mountain Boy. Pomeroy won in three straight heats. Time, 2:[illegible], 2:[illegible], 2:[illegible]. Mountain Boy was distanced first heat. The second trotting race was for horses that had never beat 3 [illegible], mile heats, best two in three, [illegible] purse $100, entrance [illegible] added; there were three entries. The race was won by Brown Dick in [illegible], he having distanced the others. The Pavilion was thronged to-night. Hon Wm Irwin delivered the annual address.

VALLEJO, Oct 3.—In the District Court [illegible] held [illegible] M O'Donnell, tried for the murder of McCarthy at Vaca station, the jury returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree. The prisoner pleaded insanity. He will be sentenced to-morrow.

The trial of Wilkinson for the murder of [illegible] has been postponed until the next term.

SAN JOSE, Oct 3.—In the pacing race to-day four horses started: Defiance, Voorhees, Jim Brown and Lady St Clair. Jim Brown won the race. Time, second heat 2:[illegible]; third heat 2:[illegible]; fourth heat 2:[illegible]. The trotting race advertised for the day did not come off.

RATS AND RAT CATCHING

A RAT [illegible] TEARS.

[From the Baltimore American.]

In a small two-story frame house on Cross street near Johnson there lives a man named James Reedy, a professional rat catcher and the only one in the city. Mr Reedy is a bright looking Englishman about forty-five years of age and he has pursued his present calling for twenty-eight years—the last nine years being spent in this city, where he says he has met with great success in his business. On being questioned as to the manner in which he destroyed rats, he stated some very curious facts. After showing the reporter a varied collection of English birds, noticeable among which was a tame jackdaw, who kept up an incessant croaking during the whole interview as if anxious to relate some very interesting story, Mr Reedy stepped into a large yard that surrounds the dwelling for the purpose of exhibiting his principal auxiliaries in the annihilation of rats, namely, the ferrets. These animals are from twelve to fifteen inches in length, with bright sparkling eyes with a slender body that can pass wherever a rat can. Their bodies are covered with dark fur in color nearly approaching a brindle. They are perfectly docile but their quick, wiry movement reminds one very much of the common American weasel. Mr Reedy has twelve ferrets all of which he has imported from England at a cost of $25 to $50 according to their training. The oldest and best cost $50, and was bought on the Epsom Downs last summer by Mr Reedy. This ferret is the only one that will obey the call of its owner, the others not being properly trained. It takes six months or over to train a young ferret so it can be used in the business. The ferrets are kept in close warm hutches and fed twice each day with raw meat and milk, except when their owner intends using them, then they are not allowed food for twelve hours before they are put to work hunting rats. After leaving the ferret hutches and examining a coop containing a number of beautiful Albino rats with fur as white as snow and bright pink eyes, we arrived at a long row of dog kennels, the inhabitants of which all rushed out to the full length of their chains and greeted us with a perfectly deafening [illegible] of howls, there being seventeen of those animals in and about the kennels. With the exception of a fine pair of surly looking bull terriers, the whole collection consisted of Scotch and English black and tan terriers. These dogs are all fed three times a day and have comfortable bedding places in their kennels every evening. Mr Reedy says that when he receives an order from some one to rid their places of rats he charges from $5 to $10 according to the magnitude of the undertaking and then binds himself to not only make the place perfectly rat proof but also to keep it in that condition for one year. He then takes two of his best black and tan terriers and an old skye terrier named Blop. Blop's personal appearance is most miserable, as in addition to being minus one eye and the larger part of his caudal appendage, his whole head and body is covered with hundreds of scars and wounds received in battle with the fierce rodents that he takes such a delight in slaying. Yet notwithstanding Blop's wretched personal appearance his remaining eye sparkles with vim, his head is cocked knowingly on one side and his diminutive remnant of a tail vibrates with joy whenever the magic word "rat" is mentioned. With these three dogs, six ferrets and a boy armed with a long piece of fine fishing net Reedy repairs to the vermin afflicted house. The principal holes are first stopped up with brick and tin, only two being left open. Into one of these the ferrets are put and they at once begin their search. Reedy then leaves the boy and two dogs to watch the holes while himself and Blop explore every room in the building. On entering a room Blop smells carefully over the floor and around the wainscoating, and if there are no rats there the room is left and man and dog pass on to another, but if there should be rats secreted between the floors or in the walls Blop makes their presence known by whining and shaking his dilapidated tail in a fearfully agitated manner. Reedy immediately knocks on the floor and gives a peculiar whistle and a ferret is there in a moment and the rat has decamped almost as soon. They are in this way driven from one room to another and finally come out of the hole left open and becoming entangled in the meshes of the net that has been laced across the middle of the room they are speedily killed by the boy and dogs. The ferrets are then taken out and fed while the old holes are covered securely with tin. Reedy claims that although there may be dozens of rat holes in a house there is always one hole the rats use in going out for water and this hole is always the one before which the ferrets are placed. He also states that there are never as many rats in a house as people suppose, and that it is very seldom he finds more than twenty-five in one dwelling. After making his first visit and killing all the rats he returns once every month and examines the premises in case others may have settled during his absence. He states that no rat can hide from a ferret and that at the approach of that animal they will immediately hunt other quarters. Several weeks ago he visited a house on Madison avenue and while at work the ferret started a large rat, which ran the whole length of the house between the floors and on coming out of the open hole it got fast, could not escape, and that he watched its fruitless efforts to get through the hole in which it was caught, and finally when the ferret came lashing along in its pursuit and the rat realized its hopeless condition Reedy asserts that several large tears started out of the rat's eyes and ran down its cheeks. This story is corroborated by the boy who accompanied him on his rat catching expedition [illegible]. Mr Reedy states that he had a [illegible] of work [illegible] both in the city and country, where he does great service by ridding the farmers' barns and grain sheds of vermin. He also removes rats from ships and other vessels. He states that in the latter case the rats will take refuge in the lower hold and the ferrets, having an aversion to water, cannot be made to follow them [illegible].

An old prison proprietor [illegible] Danbury [illegible]. When he was married [illegible] during a storm [illegible] was driven against the bank and the [illegible] house threw him and his wife out of bed, broke one of her legs and nearly disembowelled him. Then he moved to an interior city and rented the fourth floor of a brick building on a back street.

THE TOWER OF LONDON

SOME MEMENTOS OF BY GONE DAYS—[illegible]—THE HEADSMAN'S AX AND BLOCK.

"This," said the broad backed beefeater, "is the cell where Sir Walter Raleigh was confined. In this apartment he wrote his History of the World. With this ax he was beheaded on this block. This same block was also used for the beheading of Queen Anne Boleyn, Lady Jane Gray and Lord Lovat, Kilmarnock and Balmerino."

We were in the room known as Queen Elizabeth's armory in the Tower of London. Our guide wore the gold embroidered scarlet coat, black round broad rimmed stiff hat and silk stockings which have constituted the uniform of the Tower guides or Beefeaters from time immemorial.

I knelt down and placed my neck in the axe dinted black shining groove which had formed the death necklace of queen, courtier and rebel, and the poetess struck me with her embroidered handkerchief. The while with closed eyes my wits went wandering away and away beyond these thick low walls to the England whose history you may read in gleaming halberd and embroidered armor and rusted torture screws scattered through these gloomy rooms.

They were stalwart and fearless men these island sires of ours, and who shall jibe their sons for carefully preserving every relic of their achievements whether of glory or shame? In the olden time statesmanship was clumsier and rougher in its contrivance than at present, and to smother or behead your rival was the fashionable way to dispose of him. We have bettered all that. We carry him into a bolting caucus or permit him to Credit Mobilierize himself or lead him into the paths pursued by the back [illegible].

Every room in the Tower is filled with ancient armor and spears and swords and guns from the rusty matchlock to the most recent improvement in musket. You pass from the White Tower which William the Conqueror erected to overlook the marshes of Essex and the turbulent citizens of London into the Bloody Tower where the two Princes were smothered 400 years ago. From thence to the Beauchamp Tower where to this day you may behold the autograph of Philip Howard, Earl of Arundel, carved over the fire-place. Philip died in prison for not liking Elizabeth and his father was beheaded for aspiring to marry Mary Queen of Scots. You couldn't suit people in those days no matter which course you took. In the new regalia room in this tower the crown jewels are exhibited—for a sixpence. Victoria's cap of purple velvet, hooped with silver and blazing diamonds and rubies, Albert Edward's crown of beaten gold unadorned with jewels, St Edward's ancient crown with its collection of gems, and other crowns and scepters and rods and bracelets and spurs and anointing vessels and baptismal fonts and spoons and sacramental plate, all blazing with gems and never used, and worth ever so many millions and millions of dollars, the while the squalor and sorrow of England surges, and struggles and suffers, all about the walls which environ and guard these glittering baubles of a realm.

We had time only to glance through the Devereux Tower where Essex was confined and the Bowyer Tower where Duke Clarence was drowned in a butt of malmsey. We paused a moment at the water gate where the silken robed galleys of the Plantagenets were accustomed to land and then we emerged into the din of London and called a cab, and in half an hour were in Madame Tussaud's wax gallery.—Cor. Sacramento Union.

SUSPENSION OF THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF WASHINGTON

A correspondent of the N Y Herald narrates the following incident in the recent panic:

An examination of the banking room of the First National Bank showed that the final scene was fully prepared. There was a pile of greasy National Bank notes ready for redemption, but an absence of the business force behind the counter. The suspension malaria was hovering in the atmosphere but had not quite paralyzed the paying teller's arms.

"You appear to be taking things tranquilly," said your correspondent to the bank officer behind the desk.

"What is the matter?" he asked in a half guilty and half suspicious manner.

"Your neighbor down stairs has closed his doors."

"You don't say—when did it happen?"

Just here a sallow, nervous youth presented a check for $5,000. The paying teller instead of counting out the cash went down stairs and held a private consultation with the mourners as to whether the check should be honored. It was decided in the affirmative and the money counted out in one hundred dollar bills. Still another presented a check for $1,000 and another for $1,0[illegible], all of which were paid, but while this was being done the ruddy faced special was closing the doors to the First National Bank. That was too much, and in less than twenty minutes the news that the District of Columbia with all its bonds, certificates of indebtedness and deposits was bankrupt flashed like wildfire over Washington and Georgetown. The First National Bank was by law the District as well as a Government depository and Governor Cooke's resignation as Governor was instantly construed as a subterfuge to escape the responsibility which otherwise would have rested on him. The rumors for the last three months were revivified and a panicky feeling at once seized the business community of the District. The District bonds fell ten to fifteen per cent and none of the private bankers cared to buy them at the lowest figure.

THE FLOOR OF THE FRENCH ASSEMBLY

There is a ministerial bench immediately in front of the tribune where some of the members of the Cabinet are always to be found when the Assembly is in session. Each one, as in the British Parliament, advocates and defends the measures emanating from the branch of government over which he has charge. Furnishing hints for the ministers to crack is called interpellation. The defense of the general policy of the government is usually confided to the ablest speaker of Cabinet. Under Thiers it was Dufaure; under MacMahon it does not yet appear to have been definitely settled. In the American Congress there are usually two divisions, although at the present time there are three, consisting of Republicans, Democrats and Liberals. In France there are no less than five: the Right, Right Center, Left Center, Left and Extreme Left or Radical, often derisively called by its adversaries [illegible]. One or two black robed ecclesiastics occupy seats with the Right, for the Church as a rule sustains the idea of a monarchy in France. As there is no law to prevent the holding of two offices under the government at the same time there are several generals and admirals in the Chamber, but they do not appear in uniform. A deputy may be elected by constituencies [illegible] several prominent men are returned from departments where they do not live, and in case of great popularity the same representative is elected by several constituencies, when he decides which he [illegible] then the others proceed to new election.—[illegible]

[illegible] Daniel Webster.—In the [illegible] the Worcester County Mass Agricultural Fair, Senator George S Boutwell told [illegible] the great statesman [illegible] weakness.

It is told of Mr Webster, but whether with any foundation in truth I cannot say, that in a speech at Philadelphia [illegible] at the time when Pennsylvania was embarrassed and her credit impaired, he insisted that her public debt must be paid. Warmed by the occasion and subject he said: "The debt of Pennsylvania must be paid—it shall be paid—I'll pay it myself." And then after a little delay he added, "but as to private indebtedness, that's a different thing."

OREGON

Governor Grover will speak on the political issues of the day at McMinnville on Saturday the 11th instant.

Mr Myers' horses from Jackson county and [illegible]'s fine cattle have arrived at the State Fair Grounds.

The judges of election appointed in 1872 hold that office for two years and will of course act as such at the coming special election.

The Farmers' Warehouse in Albany is literally full and running over with wheat. It is estimated that it contains now 125,000 bushels of wheat—more than its registered capacity.

Stephen Hill of Polk county recently left his home and went to California, from where he writes that he will not return to Oregon. His wife and creditors are in grief, the latter most deeply, probably.

The expenses of Clackamas county for the past year exclusive of the Clackamas bridge is about $3,000 less than under former administrations, so the Enterprise is informed by one who has figured on the situation.

Mr D A Dodson of Polk county, whilom insurance agent, tried his hand this fall at running a threshing machine. In 49 days the machine threshed out 24,070 bushels of grain. This is pretty good on an average isn't it?

A young man of Albany last Sunday night got the mitten at the Baptist Church because he caught a young lady by the bustle and pulled her back to ask her company home. He is advised to try some other "holt" next time.

The Albany Democrat of last Saturday says: "Rev Dr Geary last Sabbath preached his farewell sermon to his congregation in this city having resigned his pastorate here. This leaves both the Congregational and Presbyterian churches of this city without pastors."

The following business was transacted at the Land Office at Oregon City during the month of September: Fifteen donation certificates, 5,465 acres; 21 homestead entries, 2,314 acres; three final homesteads, 392 acres; eight pre-emptions filed, 1,083 acres; two cash entries, 43 acres.

The Albany Democrat says: "The Statesman parades the astonishing fact in print that seventeen wagons were seen in a line in Salem last Monday, waiting to unload wheat.' In this city on Monday we could have counted thirty or forty at almost any of the six warehouses—and it was a poor day for wheat wagons, too."

Already there is a good deal of running to and fro between Salem and the Fair ground. Buggies and hacks are brought into requisition at all hours of the day. Many of the people who go have business to attend to there, but there are no inconsiderable number of visitors every day who merely go out to see what is going on.

On Monday last Mr Putman's boys set out a fire to burn some stubble from a field, a few miles south of McMinnville, thinking to keep it under control, but a wind sprang up and the fire was only checked after the neighbors came to help, and then some two miles of fencing was destroyed on the farms of Garrison, Putman and Phillips.

The Albany Democrat tells this: "A rough last Saturday at the Fair stepped up to a young girl whom he had never seen, and raising his hat asked her to take a swing with him. Her father happened to be standing by and in a jiffy the toe of his No 10 boot was propelling the impudent puppy across the road. He won't swing with that man's daughter you better guess."

The Mercury says: "There is a man strolling around in the east part of Marion county who is evidently deranged. He says he has an order from the Judge to the keeper of the poor house but he continues wandering around and does not go there. He has a broken or wounded finger which he says he shot with a pistol. The presumption is that he has escaped from the Asylum at East Portland."

Colonel Thomas Cann furnishes the Statesman the following list of deeds to State lands prepared at the office of the School Land Commissioners: John Norman, Coos county, 36,100 acres tide land; Mathew Lyon, Douglas, 80 acres; Samuel Colver, Jackson, 58 acres; A R Randall, Jackson, 160; Byron Elmaker, Lane, 77; A J Rose, Linn, 160; David Mulky, Marion, 42; F H Wakefield, Polk, 80; Reuben Snow, Wasco, 160.

On Monday night during the circus while Mr Garrison was absent from his stable, at McMinnville, for a few moments, somebody slipped in and took therefrom a horse belonging to Mr Fristoe of Bellevue. Next day the horse was found tied on the premises of a neighboring farmer. It is thought the thief had stopped there to furnish himself with some other needfuls and in the meantime had got frightened and skulked away leaving the horse.

Willamette University is in a very prosperous condition if we are to judge from the average attendance. The following is the number of pupils enrolled in the several departments of the University: Prof Gatch—young gentlemen [illegible]; Prof Powell—young gentlemen [illegible]; Prof Crawford—boys 10; Miss Adams—young ladies [illegible]; Miss Chamberlain—girls [illegible]; Miss Boise—girls and boys 9; Miss Moore—Musical Department [illegible]; Commercial Department, 15. Total number, 182: males 82, females 100.

The gold and silver medals offered by the State Agricultural Society to exhibitors in various classes have arrived. They are beautiful things, eighteen in number, nine of each. The gold medals are to be awarded to exhibitors of best cattle, horses, sheep, farm products, combined reaper and mower, implements, agricultural machinery, garden tools, salmon, woolen manufactures and hosiery. The entire lot will be on exhibition at the pavilion during Fair week till Friday. They cost the Society about $500.

The following statistics from the assessment roll of Clackamas county for the year 1873 have been furnished by the County Clerk: Number of acres [illegible], value $1,115,200; town lots, value $22[illegible]; merchandise and improvements, value $134,451; money, notes, accounts, shares of stock, value $[illegible]; household furniture, pleasure carriages, watches etc, value $14,008; Number of polls [illegible], value $[illegible]; Number of horses and mules [illegible], value $[illegible]; Number of cattle 7,432, value $116,[illegible]; Number of sheep and goats [illegible], value $22,[illegible]; Number of swine [illegible], value $[illegible]; Gross value of all property $[illegible]; Indebtedness within State $[illegible]; Exempt from taxation $[illegible]; Amount taxable property $[illegible].

Speaking of the corner stone ceremonies [illegible] at Salem next week, the Statesman says: "Inquiry has been made as to what arrangements have been made for citizens or organized bodies to appear in procession. Arrangements thus far have been confined to the Fraternity of A F & A M, as no formal application has been made or desire expressed by any organization to appear. We are authorized to state that if the citizens of the State present on that occasion, or any military or civic organization desire to appear in the procession, they will be assigned a place provided that application is made by Tuesday morning, Oct 7th. Arrangements must be closed at that time to prevent confusion on the day following. Those interested will therefore take notice and govern themselves accordingly."

The Sunday School society of the M E Church at Oregon City met at the parsonage last Monday evening, and adopted a Constitution and By-laws for the government of the school and elected the following officers and teachers for the ensuing year or until their successors are elected: Superintendent, Rev M Judy; Assistant Supt, Mrs J DeVore Johnson; Supt of Infant Dept, Grandma [illegible]; Asst Supt Infant Dept, Mrs E W Swafford; Secretary, J W Meldrum; Assistant Secretary, Miss Mary Beatie; Treasurer, Mrs J W Meldrum; Librarian, S R Newman; Assistant Librarian, John Chenoweth; Chorister, W H Pope; Organist, Mrs J W Meldrum. The following teachers were elected: L T Barin, Mrs J DeVore Johnson, Mrs M C Athey, Mrs J W Meldrum, Mrs Pope, J W Meldrum, W H Pope, John Chenoweth, and S R Newman. Committee on special exercises: Rev M Judy, L T Barin, W H Pope, Mrs Johnson and Mrs Meldrum.

THE TERRITORIES

Scarlet fever and influenza are raging among the children of Port Townsend.

The brig Deacon, Capt Reid, has sailed from Port Townsend to Shanghai, taking 145,813 feet rough lumber and 12,000 laths.

The revenue cutter Reliance has arrived from Sitka. Her cruising grounds have been extended from Puget Sound to Northern Alaska.

Port Townsend is spreading a little. Several transfers of real estate have taken place, and one or two new residences on the hill are contemplated.

Helena is rejoicing in spring chickens at $6 per dozen. Ministers are disheartened, and threaten to let the Montana farmers relapse into heathenism.

The commanding officer at Fort Fetterman has been instructed to demand of the Sioux the surrender of the murderers of Mrs. Richards and Miss Hall, in Little Wind River valley.

On account of the return of L L Moore, and his announcement that he would occupy his seat, no election was held for Representative of Whatcom county, on the 22d of September.

Ray Neal let a ray of light shine through a hole in the cheek of Jo Warren, in Walla Walla, recently. Ray was drunk and picked a quarrel and then used a knife. No serious damage was done.

Mr J G Swan, of Port Townsend, has packed up his extensive collection of Indian curiosities and will forward them by the Saranac on their road towards the Smithsonian Institute at Washington.

The Company now constructing the railroad from Walla Walla to Wallula, propose to the people of that locality to complete their road immediately if the citizens will purchase freight bonds and subscribe stock to said road in the sum of $40,000.

The Corinne Reporter says a bolt of lightning or ball of fire descended from the heavens about 11 o'clock Saturday night, and struck a ledge of rocks on the mountains north of town. The electric current ran along the ledge for a distance of forty yards, leaving a furrough of from two to three inches in depth, a dark bluish tinge marking the course.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Mr Richard, an extensive coal merchant of San Francisco, has made a contract with Dunsmuir, Diggle & Co of the Wellington mine, for the supply of [illegible],000 tons of coal for the San Francisco market.

There are eleven bakeries open in Victoria. Formerly there were forty ovens in full blast; there are now only eleven and these latter bake about 1½ barrels each or 20 barrels per diem. The eleven bakeries represent a capital of about $15,000.

The Colonist says that a San Francisco company, with a capital of $100,000, has been organized to develop the Provincial fisheries. It comments unfavorably upon the fact that with a floating capital of $157,000 lying idle in the banks Victoria should allow foreign capitalists to take the first fruits of their resources.

The Daily Oregonian.

SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 4, 1873.

ANOTHER WAVE IN THE GREAT TIDE.

At convenient intervals throughout the past three weeks, the OREGONIAN has been teaching and preaching, enforcing by irrefutable logic and unimpeachable reasoning, the right and duty of every man and of every Republican in particular, to use his influence and cast his vote against all forms of rings and cliques—to bolt whenever an improper nomination is forced upon the party. It is a bold doctrine:—we have known that all along. But our confidence in the purity of the great majority of the Republican party in Oregon has led us to believe that they would sustain us in taking this advanced ground. And we have not been deceived. We are in constant receipt of letters from all parts of the State commending the course the OREGONIAN has taken and adjuring us to stand firm. It is unnecessary to say that there will be no wavering in that course. We will turn neither to the right nor to the left until the people shall have "endorsed" the OREGONIAN at the polls.

But while we have thus upheld the right of all men to conscientious opinion, public sentiment in other States has been slowly but surely crystallizing, until every Republican journal that reaches our table has become a disciple of the new doctrine. In most instances the press has been behind the people, but in every instance, also, all prudent journalists have not failed to recognize the prevailing idea, and recognizing, to take it up and teach it. Harper's Weekly has always been recognized as a staunch friend of the party and an unflinching supporter of the Administration. Its "fealty" to the Republican party will be called in question by no one, [illegible] it be the hypocritical Bulletin. We cannot imagine how anything could be more plainly expressed than the demand made in the following extract from a leading article in Harper's Weekly of September 27th. And yet, after all, it is only a repetion of what the OREGONIAN said three weeks ago:

> Every Republican, however, who knows the [illegible] value of an existing and efficient organization, and who honors the party name and tradition, will do what he can to have the party represented by its best men and held to a high aim. This can be done only by refusing to support improper nominations, however "regular" they may be, and by vigorously [illegible] all improper action upon the part of representatives. Let every voter remember [that] managers do not make a party, and that the only way to control them is to defeat them. If they find that bad men are not supported, they will nominate good men. And if, by the refusal to support their action, the opposition [illegible], it is the managers, not the voters, [who] are [illegible]. This kind of independence was never so easy as it is now. The present duty of Republicans is not so much to support the party as to [illegible], and to take care that the party shall be worthy of support.

Cram that down your voracious gullet, Mr. Bulletin.

ANOTHER DOSE FOR THE BULLETIN.

It is evident that that [illegible], close-[illegible] editor of the Bulletin is [illegible] sick. Whenever the vision of the certain defeat of its candidate comes up to [illegible] and annoy, it invariably doses itself with the brandy of "party fealty." [illegible] with the hallucination that [illegible] of the Republican party in [illegible] wears the collar of slavery to an [illegible] Ring. So much brandy is injurious. Here is a little physic which is too good to be "thrown to the dogs." It is an editorial article by George William [illegible] in Harper's Weekly of September [illegible]:

> [illegible] of the Republican party is not without, but from within. It is not wise [illegible] that a considerable vote was cast last [year] for General Grant under protest, and that [illegible] of that vote has been achieved. The [illegible] opinion, which always has been and is now the Republican [illegible], is very [illegible], and [illegible] lightly [illegible] the party cockade. It does not value the party, but the purpose for which it has been [illegible]. The best men in the country have supported the Republican party, because they felt that by so doing they served in the most [illegible] way liberty and public morality. [illegible] as they feel this they will continue to support it. But when they cease to feel [that] the party can count upon them no longer. [illegible] will be the thunder of the party [illegible]. It has no terror for those who do not seek place or plunder. The Union is not now imperiled. Emancipation is [illegible]. Repudiation is a dream. The re-election of the President has dissipated the hope of [illegible]. The Republican party is not now [illegible] by the overshadowing dangers of the [illegible], and it can therefore maintain [its] unquestioned ascendency only by the character of its administration. If it [illegible] that the national patronage controls local politics more and more, [illegible] the claim of a reform of the civil service; [illegible] representatives of the national administration in the various States and in [illegible] should not command, because they [illegible] not deserve general respect and confidence; if continuous Republican victories at the polls should not stay the current of corruption, and bring the best character, ability, [illegible], and experience into the management of public affairs—then the earnest patriotism that made the Republican party would make [illegible], which would gloriously continue the [illegible] that the Republican party gloriously [illegible].

Now, perhaps, we shall have the ludicrous spectacle of the Bulletin reading Harper's Weekly, and Mr. Curtis, its editor, out of the party.

THE EXECUTION OF CAPTAIN JACK.

The curtain has fallen on the last scene in the Modoc tragedy. In accordance with a popular demand duly sanctioned by legal process, Captain Jack, Sconchin, Boston Charley and Black Jim were hanged at Fort Klamath yesterday. On the 29th day of November, 1872, the first shot was fired in the Modoc war. On the 1st day of June, 1873, Captain Jack with the last of the fugitive Modocs surrendered. On the 3d day of October, 1873, four of the original band who fired on Major Jackson's command at the mouth of Lost River, were hanged. Our special report from our correspondent at the scene of execution had not been received up to the hour of going to press, having been excluded by the lengthy dispatches to the California and Eastern press. We hope to lay it before our readers this morning in the form of an extra.

A SAD SUMMONS.

Mr. Hiram Smith was summoned suddenly from Washington county, on yesterday, by a telegram, announcing the critical illness of his son, Damon Smith. Mr. Smith left for his home (Harrisburg) last evening on the evening express, intending to go on from Salem by locomotive which had been placed at his disposal by the courtesy of the Oregon and California Railway Company. In common with all of Mr. Smith's numerous friends, we sympathize deeply with him in this threatened affliction and trust that he may be spared the blow.

MAGAZINES FOR OCTOBER.

Scribner's opens with a very fresh, readable article on "The Geysers of California," profusely illustrated with the elegant engravings for which that magazine has already become famous. L. B. Clover introduces us to "The Old Van Rensselaer Mansion," which stands on the east bank of the Hudson river, just below the village of Greenbush, opposite the city of Albany—a venerable mansion whose years run far back into the 7th decade of the seventeenth century. "Free Marriage" is discussed by Lulu Gray Noble, in rather obscure sentimentalisms. We quote at random: "There is a supreme enthusiasm of the heart whose rendering is commanded by no law, human or divine, to the being whose qualities do not spontaneously awaken it, in marriage or out of it, the eternal verities of the soul are not so falsely taxed." The average reader will not rashly controvert the proposition. "Paying Debts" suggests no new theory of getting rid of financial burdens. The second illustrated article on Central Park is a well-written, handsomely illustrated article, that will attract the eye above all others. The scene of Bret Harte's "Episode of Fiddletown," changes from the roughness of border life in California to a boarding-school in a New York village. "Arthur Bonnicastle," Dr. Holland's novel, and withal one of the most interesting of the day, is brought to a close. Dr. Blauvelt continues his vigorous essays on "Modern Skepticism," seemingly unconscious of the stinging critiques they enlist. "The Old Cabinet" is filled, as usual, with vivacious, gossipy reading. From "A Day in the French Assembly," by Albert Rhodes, we take the following description of the personal traits of Thiers:

> The central figure is not in the chair of the presiding officer, nor on the ministerial bench. It is Thiers in one of the seats of the Left Center, where he occasionally appears a careful observer of the proceedings. In the flesh, he is the shortest man in the Chamber, and in intellect, head and shoulders taller than the most gifted. The name of Little Giant would be still more appropriate to him than it was to Stephen A. Douglas, for he is shorter. He is rather burly than fat, for his shoulders are broad and he is thick through; he carries his head as erect as it is possible to do. Like most men with a big body and short legs, he has an iron constitution, that stands, even at his advanced age, any sudden and extraordinary demand made upon it; and this healthy organization evidently contributes to the unfailing good nature which he exhibits. Most of the time there is a smile twinkling behind the spectacles and turning up the corners of his large mouth; but there are two smiles, one for his opponents and another for his friends; the first has malice in it, and the second is good-nature itself. He is essentially Gallic in finesse and rapidity of thought. In reply, whether in the tribune or in hours of social relaxation, no man is quicker than he. Some of his countrymen show a tendency to talk without a purpose, but this is not one of his faults. He is an indefatigible worker, and whatever he undertakes he does thoroughly, be it negotiating treaties, speaking in the tribune, or writing history. He is a complete man, who finds time in the midst of his literary and political labors to hunt up rare objects in the way of books, pictures, and general bric-a-brac. Where his duties admit of it, he is regular and temperate in his habits, and is seldom if ever known to complain of illness or any incapacity for work. He is somewhat of a statesman of the Talleyrand school, where diplomacy and expediency exert too great an influence to admit of very high moral aims. Something of the bourgeois, too, adheres to him, and prevents the growth of moral grandeur, which, in the crisis through which he has passed, would appear to be the complement to a man of his genius and sterling qualities. In a word, he is not a Washington, although he has an ambition to imitate that great character; he is incapable of great personal sacrifice for the good of his country in the matter of material interests, and this is the most disagreeable blemish in the man.

The most notable, because the most valuable contribution to the Galaxy is ex-Secretary Gideon Welles' caustic review of Charles Francis Adams' memorial address on William H. Seward. In this, his first paper, Mr. Welles is thoroughly aroused, as will be seen from the excerpts we give below. Here is his portrait of Mr. Seward:

> Mr. Seward was a politician—a partisan politician of the central school—with talents more versatile than profound; was more of a conservative than a reformer, with no great original conceptions of right, nor systematic ideas of administration. So far as his party adopted a reforming policy he went with it, and he was with it also in opposing actual reforms by the Democrats. The representation that he was a veteran reformer, or the leader of the anti-slavery movement or of the Republican party, is a mistake. He was neither an abolitionist nor a free-soiler, nor did he unite with the Republicans until the Whig party virtually ceased to exist in most of the States, and was himself one of the last to give up the party, of which he had been from its commencement and in all its phases an active member. It was with reluctance he finally yielded, when the feeble remnant of that organization disbanded. The Republican party, with which he then became associated, was not of mushroom growth. It was years maturing. Mr. Seward, whose friends claim for him its paternity, was a Whig at its inception. He neither rocked its cradle nor identified himself with its youth, but gave it cheering words, as he had other ephemeral organizations, in order to weaken the Democrats and help the Whigs. Faithful to party, he adhered to the Whigs under all circumstances. It was his marked public characteristic. Not until the Whig party was prostrate—a skeleton without strength or vitality—did he yield and embark his political fortunes in the great uprising. In the destruction of the political scaffolding which he and his friends had constructed, perished the hopes and labors of years. To relinquish the machinery and organization which by lobby management under a skilful leader had become powerful and controlling in the Empire State of the Union, was a sacrifice not willingly made, and when made it was not in the anti-slavery interest, but with a covert design to perpetuate the Albany dynasty under the name of Republican.

And again he says

> He sometimes acted rashly, not always wisely. He was subordinate to Abraham Lincoln, and deferred to him as he had deferred to Thurlow Weed—conformed to the views of the former as he had for thirty years to those of the latter—and assumed credit in the one case as it had always been given him in the other, without being the originating and directing mind in either.

* * * * * * * *

While he would on no consideration detract one iota from the just merits of Mr. Seward, Mr. Welles is unwilling "to see the memory of the distinguished Chief Magistrate, who served his country so faithfully and so well, and finally died in her cause—unjustly obscured, and his abilities and deeds belittled and wronged." He thinks no more flagrant violation of the "duty of history" is to be found in all history, than in "the assumption that Mr. Seward directed the affairs of the nation through Mr. Lincoln." We are inclined to believe that while Mr. Welles may not be justly accused of overestimating the abilities of the late Secretary, the American people will not censure him for the liberal praise he bestows on President Lincoln.

Other papers are "Punishing a Pundit"—a scathing review of Fitzedward Hall's "Recent exemplifications of False Philology," in which Mr. White displays a rather palpable mastery over his temper by the use of such keen sentences as this: "The edge of irony is turned by the hide of such a moral pachyderm"—a continuation of De Forest's "The Wetherel Affair," "French Words and Phrases," by Albert Rhodes, a readable sketch of wonderful Alessandro di Cagliostro, and an elegant little poem—"Rabbi Simeon's Parable"—by Margaret J. Preston. In fact, these magazines for October are unusually interesting.

ENFORCEMENT OF CIVIL RIGHTS.

The Supreme Court of Iowa has recently been called to enforce the provisions of the Civil Rights act in the case of Emily Cogar, a colored woman, who brought suit against the Northwestern Packet Company for damages. She had bought a first-class ticket, and had taken passage on one of the company's packets on Mississippi river. Supposing that her first-class ticket made her a first-class passenger, and entitled her to all the privileges of the boat, she presented herself at the supper table, but was rudely ejected. After that she was forced to eat her supper on the guards of the packet. In uttering the opinion of the Supreme Court, Chief Justice Beck said,

> First, a rule or custom of a steamboat, as a common carrier, requiring passengers of color to occupy a seat at a table in the pantry or on the guards of the boat, is not reasonable and cannot be enforced. Second, a person of color is entitled to the same rights and privileges when traveling upon a steamboat as a white person, and cannot be required by any rule or custom, based upon distinction on account of race or color, to accept other or different accommodations than those given to white passengers.

The plaintiff recovered damages and the defendants learned a lesson in the construction of certain amendments to the Constitution of the United States.

A GARBLED LETTER.

When the Albany Register published the letter addressed by Mr. Geary to Charles Handley, of Yamhill county, it suppressed the following taken from the Yamhill Reporter, in which paper the letter is published entire:

> It is because I have seen more instead of less of purported testimony in the Mitchell case than has appeared in the Oregonian; and because of the hearsay nature of a large part of it, that I stand guarded against hasty judgment. The admissions of Mr. Mitchell, among all the proofs adduced, would alone be valid before a legal tribunal. The admitted facts, sad as they are, do not warrant me to conclude on his present moral status and character.

As we have before stated Mr. Geary has at different times declared that he held the matter of the charges against Senator Mitchell "in abeyance" because he had not seen the evidence. There is a palpable discrepancy between that declaration and the allegation quoted above. Will the reverend gentleman explain?

The politics of St. Louis is in a remarkably demoralized condition. Recently at the election of a Controller the Republican Committee, after mature thought, concluded that a Republican candidate could not be elected, and so they declined to make a nomination. The Democrats nominated a candidate, but he declined. They tried another, but he declined also. Finally they gave up in disgust, and a number of prominent citizens asked Captain Samuel Pepper to run. He consented and was elected by an almost unanimous vote.

The campaign documents are out at last—fifteen thousand of them—and they are enormous. The report that Senator Mitchell has contributed twenty-five thousand dollars to aid in carrying Multnomah county for Hiram is denied on the streets. He is wise in husbanding his funds for use elsewhere. Probably he is aware of the fact that fifty thousand dollars wouldn't do the job.

The conundrum that afflicts the populace: Was the postage on those campaign documents prepaid? If the Government of the United States is a close corporation run for the sole benefit and behoof of Federal officials and Custom House rings, let the people know it.

The Yamhill Reporter, up to the present week, has placed at the head of its columns: "A Ticket for Men! For Congressman, Rev. E. R. Geary." It comes to hand to-day with: "Good-bye, Mr. Geary!" Evidently the Reporter has seen certain correspondence.

NIL DESPERANDUM!

Lively Times Ahead!

ISAAC BLUM'S thousand-and-one patrons will be glad to learn that he is again in receipt of those old and favorite private brands, which in flush times used to occasion such a rush to his Cigar Stand, namely the "ESPANOLAS" and "DELICIAS," considered by connoisseurs the best 12 1-2 cent Cigars in the market.

The "OREGON BABY" still flourishes, and this and the "PROGRESS CLUB" Cigars come regularly to hand, and recent invoices are recommended as being of better quality than ever.

Imported Cigars received by every steamer, among these a choice Cigar, (WARRANTED GENUINE HAVANA IMPORTATION,) which will be sold TWO FOR 25 CENTS. These Cigars are NOT very profitable to the seller but they suit the consumer, which is all that is required.

SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 4, 1873.

CITY.

THIEF CAUGHT.—An account was given a few days since of the stealing of a horse from a gentleman in East Portland. On Thursday the thief was caught, who proved to be neither more nor less than a small boy, aged 11 years. Out of respect to the parents of the lad we suppress his name. The saddle, which was worth about $25, had been hid in the brush some distance from the town, and on being arrested the boy confessed having stolen the horse, and told where the saddle could be found. He was arrested and taken before a Justice of the Peace. The trial came off yesterday afternoon, the result of which is not known. We learn that this same juvenile thief stole a watch and a small sum of money a few months ago, from a man's house while he was away from home, but he subsequently restored the property on being detected. He has also been the author of numerous petty thefts. This is certainly an instance of youthful depravity sad to reflect upon. A boy only eleven years old, and a convicted and self-confessed thief, is a very bad beginning to say the least. A career of crime inevitably awaits such a youth, unless immediate and thorough reformation follows. For all such a Reform or Industrial School is the only institution which can effectively reach the case.

FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The John L. Stephens, which will sail this morning for San Francisco, will carry hence the following passengers: K. F. Osborne, Rev. D. K. Nesbit, Max Vogt, E. A. Burchard, T. T. Wright, Mrs. J. E. Wyche and daughter, Mrs. Gates, Prof. Marsh, W. F. Brown, A. Huling, O. M. Beat, A. Klosterman, I. Frokman, C. J. Hill, Mrs. I. Vogle and son, I. I. Toomy, Thos. Watson, M. Marks, Capt. F. M. Rollins, P. Amirius and wife, Miss Page, Geo. H. Watson and wife, Daniel Clark, W. H. Nash, D. Scharff, W. F. Breun, B. B. Graham and boy, Daniel Gaby and wife, Jos. Spener and wife, Miss A. Lund and child, F. H. Burroughs, C. M. Burroughs, Jos. Hume, Mrs. G. Reilly, J. D. Cumings, L. A. Manley, Mrs. P. A. Nottage and child, Mrs. R. C. Nichols, Mrs. John Barrett and infant, T. Spencer, T. M. Again, J. Dunlap, wife and two daughters, Maj. B. Dunlap.

CLACKAMAS BRIDGE.—The new bridge which spans the Clackamas just below where the railroad crosses the stream is at length finished. It is a magnificent structure, and is a credit to the county. It will be inspected by the County Court next week, when the contractor will be ready to turn it over to the county. The following are the dimensions of this bridge: Length of span 215 feet (being 5 feet longer than contract); total length 350 feet 8 inches, the aprons being 26 feet longer than the contract called for—some mistake having been made in the survey preparatory to construction; height of truss, 22 feet; width of bridge 22 feet. When some grading shall have been done by the road supervisor in the approaches to the bridge, it will then be ready for travel. It will be a great convenience to the traveling public.

LOST OVERBOARD.—The evening cotemporary says: "Philip Calhoun, son of Rufus Calhoun, was lost overboard from the bark Sparrowhawk while on the passage from the Sandwich Islands to Melbourne. The bark had arrived at a point about thirty miles from the coast of Australia and was going along before a light wind, when by some mishap the little fellow was knocked overboard. A boat was lowered immediately, but the boy, probably stunned by the blow that knocked him from the vessel, did not come to the surface, and was lost. He was well known in this city, and in Washington Territory, where his family reside, and was ever known as an honest young man and a dutiful son."

WILL BE DEPOSITED.—Mr. B. G. Whitehouse showed us a copy yesterday of the New England Courant published in Boston in the Colonial days. The copy referred to bears date of February 11, 1723, and has, therefore, arrived at the tender age of 150 years. Mr. Whitehouse proposes to forward this paper to Salem and have it deposited in the box which will be placed under the corner stone of the State Capitol next Thursday. This venerable specimen of journalism will take its place alongside with a number of papers of the present day, where it will rest undisturbed for perhaps [illegible].

STOOD THE TEST.—Inspectors Lotan and Flanders officially inspected the boiler and hull of the new [illegible] on Wednesday. Everything was found in excellent condition. The boiler was subjected to a hydrostatic pressure of 172½ pounds to the square inch, but it stood the test without the least perceptible change. A certificate was issued allowing the boat to carry 115 pounds of steam. In a day or two the [illegible] will make her trial trip.

LECTURER AND READER.—Mr. John D. White, a lecturer and reader in many cities of the West with acceptance to his hearers, will arrive in Portland early next week, and give an entertainment in reading, together with some account of the National Park, Mammoth Hot Springs, the Upper and Lower Falls of the Yellowstone, and other curiosities of travel across the continent from Duluth. Due notice will be given of his appointment for this place.

A WONDERFUL CURIOSITY.—A genuine merman, or manfish, will be on exhibition to-day and this evening over Schmeer Bros.' confectionery establishment, First street. This wonderful physical combination was captured during a terrible typhoon off the coast of Japan by being washed on the deck of an English ship, while cruising in those waters. No adequate description of this curiosity can be committed to paper.

ANNIVERSARY.—The nineteenth anniversary of the incorporation of the city of Portland, October 14th, will be celebrated by the City Rifles. On that evening a social party will be given at the Armory, to which only special invitations have been issued. A series of social gatherings will be inaugurated by the company, and they propose making the affairs pleasant in every particular.

CHANGE IN AGENTS.—By an order from the head office of the Fireman's Fund Insurance Company at San Francisco, Mr. George F. Grant, agent at Portland, has been promoted to the special work at headquarters there. Mr. Edward Hall has been appointed special agent for the company in the Oregon department to fill the vacancy created by the promotion of Mr. Grant.

A HANDSOME PRESENT.—Mr. C. C. Phillips, First Lieutenant of the City Rifles, received on the last steamer a superb present in the shape of sword and belt. The sword is made of superfine steel, beautifully chased and encased in a silver scabbard. The belt is made of silk and gold braid, and of tasty workmanship. Both these articles were presented by a Zouave Company of San Francisco.

WENT DOWN.—The steamer John L. Stephens went down the river yesterday afternoon as far as Columbia City. A quantity of freight will be received at that point. This morning at 8 o'clock the steamer Senator will leave the wharf with passengers, baggage, mails and express to join the ocean steamer.

NEW BOILER.—Foster & Co. are now engaged in making a small boiler for a steamer which is to run on the Umpqua river. The boiler is rapidly approaching the finishing strokes. It is 10 feet long and 42 inches in diameter. There are 100 tubes, each three feet and six inches in length.

DIPLOMA.—The first diploma was awarded the Domestic Sewing Machine at the Linn County Fair, as the latest scientific invention of the age. The same machine received the first premium on sample work at the Washington County Fair.

BOILER REPAIRED.—We learn from the Port Townsend Argus that the steamer Gussie Telfair arrived at that port on the 29th ult. She was detained over time on account of a defect in her boiler, which had to be patched before she left the river.

TUNNEL FINISHED.—Last evening at 6 o'clock the tunnel under Front street and along Stark was finished. In a few days the tile will be laid through the tunnel and the work proceed.

REPAIRING.—The tug Merrimac is now lying at Flanders' wharf, having come up the river on Thursday evening. She is having some slight repairs made to her machinery.

PERSONAL.

Ex-Governor Gibbs is now in Astoria. He will return in a few days.

Mr. Edmund T. Coleman, the well known artist will take his departure for San Francisco on the steamer to-day.

Mr. J. M. Caywood, Sheriff of Multnomah county, and now East on a visit to his old home, is expected to return in a few weeks.

Rev. D. K. Nesbitt, of Corvallis, will depart this morning for California, whither he goes to attend the session of the Synod of the Pacific.

W. F. Trimble, Esq., started overland a few days ago bound for the East. He goes on important business, and will visit, before his return, Washington, New York and Louisville, his old home. He will be absent from the city about six weeks.

We acknowledge a call yesterday from Mr. N. W. Garretson, of Iowa, Organizing Deputy of the Patrons of Husbandry for this coast. Having completed his labors in this State, Mr. Garretson will take his departure for California by the steamer this morning. Before his departure for Iowa, he will attend the first regular meeting of the State Grange of California, which will convene at San Jose on the 14th of this month.

A late number of the S. F. Call says: On Thursday evening next A. B. Meacham, Chairman and sole survivor of the Peace Commission, so treacherously assailed by Capt. Jack and his associates, will lecture at Mercantile Library Hall, taking for his subject, the Modoc Indians, their habits and peculiarities, and the causes which led to the recent sad insurrection of the tribe. Mr. Meacham has been associated with the Indians of the Oregon and California border for many years, and has had rare facilities for studying the habits and customs of the Western aborigines. At a subsequent lecture he will treat of the religions and superstitions of the Northern Indian tribes.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL.

Professor C. B. Plummer is making the Puget Sounders laugh.

At last accounts George B. Waldron and wife were still in Colorado.

Madame Bishop and troupe gave a concert in Marysville, Cal., last week.

Stephen Maybell continues to trod the stage. He is at present at Shell's Opera House, San Francisco.

Montague and Mlle. Gerretta were in Philadelphia last week. Ella La Rue at East Saginaw, Michigan.

Miss Kate Pell and Mr. and Mrs. Coriell were at Eureka, Cal., with a Vaudeville company, on the 24th ult.

William Barry and Nellie Cummings, with the California Theater Company, were at San Jose, Cal., the present week.

The Circus, Rosedale Troupe, the Vivian party and Reed's Panorama will be sufficient to supply all demands for amusements during the Fair.

S. W. Piercey was to have taken a benefit at Los Angeles, Cal., last Tuesday evening. Hamlet was to be presented, but the papers do not say that he was to assume the title role.

SPECIAL CHURCH NOTICES.

The Rev. Mr. Daly will officiate at the Mission Chapel, corner First and Caruthers streets at 7½ o'clock.

Bishop Morris will officiate at the Insane Asylum, East Portland, Sunday afternoon at 2½ o'clock; at St. David's at 7½.

The evening service of the Unitarian Church is omitted to-morrow. The morning service is at the usual hour, and afternoon service at 3½ o'clock.

At the 4 o'clock service at St. Stephen's Chapel Col. Kemble, Government Inspector of Indian Affairs, will give an account of missionary work among the Indians.

There will be preaching in the German language by the Rev. H. Gans to-morrow, at 9:30 A. M., in the vestry of the Presbyterian Church, corner of Third and Washington streets.

In consequence of unavoidable circumstances, Rev. E. R. Geary, of Albany, will not be able to fill his appointment to-morrow at the First Presbyterian Church of this city. However, the pulpit will be filled by Rev. W. R. Stewart, of Salem.

AMUSEMENTS.

John Wilson's Circus made its re-appearance last evening on the old stamping grounds, corner of B and Sixth streets. New novelties were introduced, among which was the grand equestrian spectacle of "Turpin's Ride to York or the Death of Black Bess." There was a good attendance and the acts, as well as the—a novelty here—equestrian drama, were excellent. Jack Lee made a tight rope ascension, previous to the opening, in a clever manner. At 2 o'clock this afternoon the little folks and ladies will be afforded an opportunity to witness a performance of the entire troupe and in the evening the final entertainment will be given. Mr. Wilson has done much to make this circus a success and as this is the last performance, besides being the best ever given, the large tent should be filled. Don't fail to attend as it is the last chance.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Smith, Chapman & Co. want several boys See ad.

W. O'Shea is desirous of seeing those wanting coin on deposit. See ad.

Beck & Waldman are out in a new card today. Read it, and then call and make a purchase.

Call and see Mr. P. Selling at his old stand. His stock is large and prices low. What more can you ask.

Mr. John Brady has removed his shop to No. 5 Washington street, where he is prepared to take your measure for a pair of boots or shoes. He can give you a perfect fit.

Charley Martin has great faith in advertising. He keeps it up and business is good. Prices at his place are fixed to suit all classes. Leave an order this afternoon and depend upon its prompt delivery.

YAMHILL NOTES.

A gentleman who came down on the train last evening from Yamhill, furnishes us with the following items of interest:

The Grange called a meeting at St. Joe on Thursday.

A Salem firm has just opened a new wagon shop in McMinnville.

Business is generally lively in McMinnville, with hardly a vacant house to rent.

Twenty-four daily papers are taken at McMinnville, four of which are Bulletins.

Baugnris' flouring mills (water power) is busily engaged in grinding on the new wheat.

W. H. Odell and Dr. Watts "orated on politics at McMinnville on last Wednesday evening.

Several new wooden houses, and probably a brick store, will be erected soon in the above town.

A new cultivator, with a sulky attachment, has recently been invented at McMinnville, to which it is claimed that all others "can't hold a candle."

Silver and small gold is needed in McMinnville to break the numerous twenty dollar pieces for the retail trade.

Delschneider, formerly in business on Front street in Portland, will soon locate in trade at McMinnville; and J. Enery, who was also burned out, is merchandizing at Bellevue.

Wheat is nearly all sold in Yamhill at $1 per bushel, but farmers are not all through bringing their grain to the railroad, river or mills. The Commercial Mills are grinding about 500 bushels per day.

One of the agents who was buying grain, refused to pay the dollar agreed upon before the fall in wheat. Ten farmers held a consultation with the buyer, but the result of the conference is not yet known.

The Baptist College, at McMinnville, under the charge of Profs. Baily and Robb, with Miss Jordan as music teacher, opens with flattering prospects. The number of pupils is larger than usual at this early part of the term, and promises unusual prosperity.

OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

At 2 P. M. the return game between the Pioneers and the picked nine that played the champions last Saturday will be played. Place, Academy grounds.

Final and deciding game between the married and single elevens of the Cricket Club at East Portland this afternoon. The game promises to be the most interesting of the series.

Base ballists are mainly interested in the tournament which takes place at the Fair during the coming week. Three clubs, the College, Pioneers and Pacifics, and, perhaps, the Monmouth, will take part in the pastime.

The Eastern championship stood thus on the 24th ult.:

	Games played.	Won.	Lost.	To play.
Philadelphia	40	30	10	14
Boston	40	27	12	15
Baltimore	39	23	15	16
Athletic	37	19	18	17
Mutual	39	18	21	15
Atlantic	42	12	30	12

OVERRATED FORTUNES.

FACTS CONSIDERABLY REDUCE FIGURES.

Money is more mixed with hyperbole than almost anything else. A man's fortune is almost never stated correctly. It is doubled, trebled, quadrupled. Occasionally a man dies who was supposed to have been modestly independent, and proves to be nearly rich. But generally it is quite the other way. The late Horace F. Clark was considered worth $10,000,000, at least, and he was not worth over $3,500,000. Samuel N. Pike, who built the Grand Opera House, was thought to have cleared $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 in whisky and real estate operations; and yet, on settling his affairs, they showed only $1,500,000. Elias Howe, the sewing machine man, did not leave one-fifth of what he was credited with.

The fortunes of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Alexander T. Stewart and William B. Astor are now represented at $100,000,000 each, albeit it is doubtful if any one of them has half as much. Astor may turn out, with all his lands and leases, to be worth $40,000,000; but Stewart will not be likely to foot up over $25,000,000, and Vanderbilt will be lucky to leave $30,000,000. George Law enjoys the reputation of having $10,000,000, though half the sum would, probably, be nearer the fact. Peter Cooper ought to be put down for $2,500,000, instead of $5,000,000; Horace B. Chaflin at $5,000,000, instead of $15,000,000 to $20,000,000; E. S. Jaffray at $2,000,000, instead of $5,000,000; August Belmont at $2,000,000, instead of $6,000,000; Robert L. Stuart at $2,500,000, instead of $6,000,000; and James Brown at $3,000,000, instead of $8,000,000 to $10,000,000. So, if Moses Taylor's $20,000,000, Jay Gould's $10,000,000, James Lenox's $6,000,000, Amos R. Eno's $7,000,000, Royal Phelps' $5,000,000, E. D. Morgan's $4,000,000, Marshall O. Roberts' $20,000,000, and other large estates were divided by two, three, and even four, the quotient would be far more trustworthy than the general report and belief.—N. Y. Cor. Chicago Tribune.

A SOUTHERN TRAGEDY.—The Opelousas (La.) Journal, of the 15th, is responsible for the following: "Down in the Parish of St. Martin an old widow lady, whose children had all married off and left her alone, had been persuaded to sell her little place and live with them. She sold her land, buildings, and improvements one day for $2,000, and received the money in cash on the spot, in her own house, where the act of sale was passed before two witnesses, the number required by law, and who witnessed also the paying of the money. In a short time she was to give possession, but she remained in the house the night following the sale, all alone, or with no masculine adult inmates, as was her custom. That night two negro burglars broke into the house and demanded her money or her life. She gave it to them, but begged them to let her have $100 of it, as she owed that amount, and wanted to pay the debt, when she would be satisfied. They finally consented to let her keep the $100. They then ordered her to make some coffee for them to drink. In doing so, she bethought herself of some stychnine she had in the house, and quietly dropped it in the pot of steaming hot coffee, and placed it on the table with cups, spoons, and sugar for them to pour out and sweeten to their taste. This they did, and drank in a jolly mood, each one having $950 in his pocket. But in a few moments the tables were turned. One gave up the ghost where he sat at the table in his chair, and the other got up, staggered off a few feet, and tumbled over into eternity. The good old lady recovered her money, and on examining the persons of the black, burglarious robbers, they turned out to be the two witnesses to the act of sale, both white men, blackened for the occasion—both her neighbors, and one was her cousin."

Every mother should see that her darling boy is well clothed for the winter. Messrs. BECK & WALDMAN make a specialty of selling Youths' clothing, and have a complete stock on hand. The prices are fixed to suit those who wish to economize. They have a full line of gentlemen's fall suits, and everything in furnishing goods. They give satisfaction to all. Be sure to recollect this well known firm.

Emil, Lowenstein & Co., recently burned out by the great fire, have removed their Stock of Carpets, Curtains, Coverings, etc. to No. 87 FRONT STREET, between Washington and Alder, where they can be found, selling off the entire Stock AT COST, in order to start soon in new quarters with an Entire New Stock. All persons indebted to them are requested to call at their temporary place of business and settle up.

NEW OPENING.—Messrs. Hurgren & Shindler have opened at the corner of Front and Alder streets. A full stock of furniture, etc., on hand—more being added daily.

There is no disease flesh is heir to more troublesome to manage than rheumatism. It comes when you least expect it, and generally remains till it gets ready to go away. The most conspicuous remedy for this complaint is Johnson's Anodyne Liniment.

Two or three doses of Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders will cure a horse of any common cough or cold, and the very worst cases may be cured in a few weeks. We know this from experience.

For Bronchial, Asthmatic and Pulmonary Complaints "BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES," manifest remarkable curative properties.

VICTIMS OF OBSCURE DISEASE, seeking safety and restored health, should use Dr. Helmbold's Extract Buchu. This article is officinal and standard. It is, moreover, the only preparation that develops the full value of Buchu as a diuretic. It is a perfect specific for all diseases of the urinary organs in male or female. Beware of counterfeits and imitations, which unscrupulous men are endeavoring to palm off upon Dr. Helmbold's reputation. Look for the Doctor's signature on the wrapper.

No one should neglect a cough. It is suicide. DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY will cure you. Thousands attest its wonderful power. Coughs, colds, bronchitis and consumption give way before this great purifier.

NELATON, THE EMINENT FRENCH SURGEON.—In an obituary on Dr. Auguste Nelaton, the N. Y. Times relates the following incident in the life of that distinguished surgeon:

His name came prominently before the public in connection with his attendance on Garibaldi, after the latter had been wounded in the foot, by a rifle bullet at the battle of Aspromonte. In the consultation held on the case, at which the most eminent surgeons of England and France attended, Dr. Nelaton stood alone in the opinion that the bullet was still embedded in the foot; the other surgeons maintaining that it had passed out, as their most careful probings had failed to discover its whereabouts. To ascertain its location, Dr. Nelaton constructed a delicate probe, consisting of a small rod, working by a screw in an outer tube. To the end of the rod a piece of soft porcelain was attached, on which a leaden substance like a bullet would make a black mark. With this instrument, Dr. Nelaton discovered the place where the ball had lodged in his patient's foot, and then extracted it. The probe is now used exclusively in cases of gun-shot wounds, and is known as the Nelaton probe. To Dr. Nelaton surgical practice is also indebted for the introduction of a new and remarkable operation for immediate removal of stone in the bladder, which supersedes all previous operations in lithotrity.

The Tonic of the Period.

This is a trying season to persons deficient in stamina and out of health. To rally their physical energies by the most approved artificial means is a duty they owe to themselves. Foremost among the tonics and alteratives of the age stands Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is a vegetable stimulant and corrective, against which no tenable objection can be urged. There is no risk in recommending it as the best preparation in existence for renovating an enfeebled and broken down system. The most valuable medicinal products that nature has ever yielded to botanical research are blended in this famous elixer, and its stimulating basis is recognized in our public hospitals as the purest of all varieties of distilled liquors. For general debility, nervous weakness, dyspepsia, constipation, rheumatism, billiousness and intermittent fevers it is a positive specific.

SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 4 1873

A SENSATIONAL SKETCH.

"It's only a flirtation you know auntie"

"Then I pronounce it an exceedingly reprehensible course of conduct Zoe You certainly have encouraged Mr Vavasour's attention and people are beginning to remark the intimacy You must put a stop to it"

"Which—people talking or Mr Vavasour's attentions?" asked Zoe demurely

"Effect a stoppage to the latter and there'll be no room for the other" returned Miss Murray, with asperity "It's a mortal wrong to flirt with every gentleman in the house as you have been doing"

"Oh auntie," cried Zoe with a merry twinkle in her black eye which contradicted the grave expression of her long-drawn countenance "You know I have scarcely spoken to Jonas Ferrington and I'm sure you haven't had eyes for anyone else except as it seems, your favorite, Henry Vavasour"

Zoe executed a pirouette about the room and disappeared within her own door quite unconscious that Vavasour had passed beneath the open window and heard all the conversation that is chronicled here He flipped the ashes from his cigar and walked on with a meditative frown contracting his brow

Vavasour was a lady killer and in his own way faultless His broadcloth was of the finest, his linen the whitest, his silk tile the glossiest his boots and gloves tiny unwrinkled and perfect. He was tall and stylish, his complexion scarlet and white his teeth dazzling his hair wavy, silken, and brown Yet despite all these perfections, his whole expression was marred by the undecided quiver of his full [illegible] and the shifting selfish light in his [illegible] eye.

The wrinkle in his forehead smoothed itself gradually out, and he bit the end from a cigar with a complacent smile

"Only a flirtation eh?" he soliloquized "Well, all the better for that; but what an awful [illegible] it is Why, I was actually experiencing compunctious qualms, and debating pro and con if I should turn over a new leaf toward her. Rather hard on a fellow's self-esteem to find himself beaten at his own game; but, [illegible] ing all the circumstances, I am quite [illegible] this time. Now I can enjoy my [illegible] without misgivings during my fortnight of probation And then, my dear Zoe, I must yield to superior claims."

Zoe tripped down to the [illegible] of the seaside hotel, where he awaited her a couple of [illegible] She had a trim little figure and [illegible] ty foot, and the puffings and loopings of her [illegible] walking-dress, just displaying a [illegible] boot [illegible], were something wonderful to behold

There was a brighter flush upon her cheek, and [illegible] light in her wide black eyes, that [illegible] shyly as she met him

"[illegible] little coquette!" mentally commented Vavasour

And Zoe, with her gloved finger tips upon his arm, felt her heart quiver and thrill with a [illegible] tion, which was something new in her life experience.

Ah, Zoe, [illegible] who has walked [illegible] over half a score of hearts in [illegible] was your bravado then [illegible] the taunt of a spirit unwilling to acknowledge its enthrallment until verbally [illegible] Auntie, left behind in the [illegible] of [illegible] tent, and Vavasour beside her, [illegible] the conversation he had overheard [illegible] alike of the strong passion [illegible] into life in the girl's intense and [illegible]

[illegible] singingly sweet murmured in [illegible] tender glances so falsely expressed on her [illegible] it was, nurtured [illegible] tive life, and for the time [illegible] newly awakened craving for—

[illegible] in a [illegible] of sweet delight—exploring unknown paths, where every turn was [illegible] to the goal of life and love [illegible] or [illegible] and despair, [illegible] and [illegible] ful. And she was sure [illegible] on earth she had trodden on the [illegible] in such glowing colors!

[illegible] of the days and hours [illegible] while she was lost in the [illegible] of the [illegible] Yet she [illegible] and [illegible], ate, drank, and slept much [illegible] way, except that she [illegible] the [illegible] which to her own [illegible] to change her into a [illegible] and [illegible] of

[illegible] was too thoroughly engrossed in [illegible] and her [illegible] bride- [illegible] If much in Zoe's pro- [illegible] to a realization of her [illegible] in a while, long enough to deliver [illegible] lation spiced by a modicum of [illegible] ally wound up by taking [illegible] ding some minutes pertain-

[illegible] of social life there are always [illegible] more [illegible] of their neighbors [illegible] than careful of their own, and these [illegible] Zoe was wearing her [illegible] her [illegible] waved now and then [illegible] not always distrust the [illegible] young [illegible] orbs grown liquid and [illegible] He had good traits besides [illegible] of [illegible] worldliness which [illegible] and the shallow depths were stirred [illegible] by a mingling of remorse and longing [illegible] he crushed out again with the cruel [illegible] of a will that would not be con-

The blow fell upon Zoe with only the faintest [illegible] onition to herald it.

She danced in through the side entrance of [illegible] one evening with her short black [illegible] all in tumble from the race she had been [illegible] along the shore. She came upon [illegible] suddenly, to his ill-concealed discomfiture. He held a flower-pot containing a [illegible] purple fuchsia in full bloom. Zoe [illegible] short, and put out her two hands confidingly

"For me?" she cried, "I know it must be, for you [illegible] me call it my favorite"

"[illegible] I have been ungallant enough to forget the fact. Pardon me that I must refuse this one; it is otherwise promised"

"Oh!" she said, laughing to cover her confusion, "[illegible] fortunate that I didn't squander [illegible] Auntie shall order me one like [illegible] I don't [illegible] my [illegible] powers, [illegible] on, Mr. Vavasour"

"[illegible] let me remind you of a promise to [illegible] to the top of the cliff with me How [illegible] can you go?"

"Now, if you are not critical," she replied, [illegible] a shake of her rumpled flounces. "In [illegible] minutes, if you prefer, smooth curls and a [illegible] There! I'll not put your [illegible] to the test but you may wait for me in [illegible] time I have named"

Glancing back as she skimmed up the stair [illegible], she saw him enter a doorway which did not communicate with his own apartments

"Those rooms were vacant through the week," she thought "I wonder who has taken them!—one of his friends perhaps"

She had quite forgotten the occurrence when she [illegible] climbed the narrow pathway which led up to the cliff and stood with Vavasour, watching the light as it faded on the [illegible] of the sea

He was manifestly uneasy, and broke his subject with the abrupt haste of one who dreads to pass an unavoidable ordeal

"Never mind the scene out there, Zoe Who do you suppose is coming to night?"

"How should I know?" she asked laughingly. "You forget that our paths were the [illegible] of strangers until we met here You must enlighten me"

"I am expecting friends and with them my wife I hope you two will take to each other"

He would have gone on uttering commonplaces, but Zoe lifted her face, gray as ashes, to search his own with an agonized glance Her half hope that it might be only a cruel jest he was uttering was blotted out by the cowardly defiance she read there

"Your wife! heaven help me!" she murmured, huskily and sank down at his feet in a stricken heap

He thought she had fainted but she shrank away from him when he would have raised her in his arms

"Go away! Leave me here alone" she implored

Vavasour shuddered as he glanced towards the precipice a hundred feet down with the sea rolling at its base

"Will you go?" she demanded angrily

"I am afraid you will do something rash [illegible], Zoe, Zoe! I never knew until now that I love you O! forgive me darling! my punishment is greater than I can bear"

He covered his eyes with his hands and groaned aloud. He was weak, vacillating and [illegible] that moment really believed that life without her would be nothing more than a blank [illegible] of [illegible]

The awakened bitterness was succeeded by an [illegible] as it was sinful. He stooped over her, with impassioned entreaty in his tones and that handsome false face, whose beauty had gone so far to win her, lighted with a pleading glow

"Zoe darling come to me! life is nothing without you—fate would be cruel to part us Forget what I have told; let us defy all the world and live only for each other!"

Slowly she rose up with crimson flames leaping back into the pallid cheeks and lips and the wide black eyes strained with unutterable longing

"You love me like that!" she asked those wistful eyes fixed upon him with a reproach he could not fathom

"Better than life itself Zoe"

He stooped as if to caress her and with a quick motion she put him between herself and that precipitous descent with the sea at its base.

Her two hands fell upon his arm, light and fair as snowflakes and her face was upturned with such a look as a better man might have inspired

"I love you" she said with a solemn earnestness that made him shrink and shiver with chill dread "You were cruel but I love you! I never could live the life you propose and I never can face the sneers and jeers of those who know how lightly you had won me Fate would be cruel, indeed to part us now Come"

Her soft white arms twined about his neck and her gaze riveted his with a fascination he could not brook even while he started with horror at the meaning he read in the wide distended eyes

The two figures wavered upon the edge of the cliff He threw up his arms wildly endeavored to shake her off, and then both went over the giddy height * * * The sea washed up its victims their hair spangled with the glittering ocean sand and twined with clinging seaweed, her arms still clasping his neck as when they had fallen from the cliff

And her face was ineffably calm but his was stamped with the horror and dread of an unsought death

Liverpool Wheat 12s 7d@12s 9d club 13s@13s 2d

The condition of our local money market has changed but little for a week past, though the general tendency of affairs is toward greater closeness. There has been a steady flow of wheat into the market, but only a few important transactions are noted. The truth is, shippers purchased so heavily a few weeks ago that they nearly consumed the surplus funds in our market in making payments and are in consequence a little short at this time In addition there has been some difficulty in disposing of commercial bills owing to the unsettled and uncertain state of monetary matters in Eastern cities. We scarcely feel justified in noting any positive advance in rates for money, but there is a strong tendency to a higher figure and decided firmness, with a closer limitation to the demands of regular customers. This is contrary to the prediction generally made some time ago, that money would be plentier during the fall months, but then no one could either foresee the crash occurring at the East or the temporary but extraordinary requirement raised in our State by the sudden and unprecedentedly large movements in the grain crop Still we find that the principal complaint of scarcity is not made by our general merchandising firms but is mainly confined to those who have been on the wheat market in one way or another. The farmers as a class have more ready money on hand than usual at this season of the year The fall trade of our principal houses is prosperous and with a return to the ordinary channels of commerce of the large amounts now invested in grain we may confidently expect the improvement of, and an easier tone to our money market.

Our exchanges both from the East and California are still commenting on the causes and results of the late panic in banking circles. One gratifying feature is that neither the Government nor the legitimately merchandising community will be seriously affected except as the shock is felt in the stoppage of important internal improvements and the general disturbance of the relations which exist necessarily between strictly mercantile affairs and the "manipulators" of large amounts of the circulating medium of the country Though many of the leading houses suspended, those which were considered reliable will gradually resume at an early day, if they have not already done so and the total failures are of a class of houses that the country at large can well afford to spare The Commercial Herald of San Francisco which has heretofore said some very hard things of the Administration is now in honesty constrained to endorse the action of the President and Secretary of the Treasury in their refusal to accede to the demand of the New York capitalists by issuing the $44 000 000 of Legal Tender reserves. That paper calls the demand a "gross outrage and says it was made to assist a set of speculating brokers who have been little better than so many scourges upon the mercantile community and the transactions of legitimate business and thinks it but just to contrast the action of Grant and Richardson with the specious sophistical maunderings of Reverdy Johnson who argued that the commission of wrong justifies its repetition because the law had been transgressed in one or two extraordinary cases it is right to transgress it again when a somewhat similar occasion offers A sharp lesson like the one just taught to prominent New York brokers and speculators seems to be the only way by which those gentlemen can be brought to a sense of their financial blundering It is only during such a crisis as the one that has just overtaken them that they discover how much better it would have been to repose credit in the solid interests of the country The cable reports Lord North as having loaned $5 000 000 to the London branch of Cooke & McCullough which seems to invalidate the preceding rumor to the effect that the failure of the New York and Philadelphia houses did not impair the soundness of the London concern It is possible that Mr McCulloch's greater experience and more careful management preserved the London branch from immediate attack but it is now quite certain that it needed strong and active assistance The resumption of Jay Cooke & Co will hardly place the rest of failed firms upon their legs again At latest advices the storm had subsided without much damage to legitimate business

The Wheat Market.

The excitement induced by other matters has drawn the attention of people from this matter for some days past. In the meantime the Liverpool market has somewhat advanced on the quotations of a week ago but is now still five pence less than the highest figure of the season At San Francisco and here the decline is at least 15 to 20 cents per cental Why this is so under the most reliable information at present to be obtained from Europe and considering the probabilities of a fair supply of tonnage on this coast is something that perhaps only the thoroughly initiated can tell The truth is England and France have not only consumed all their old stocks of Breadstuffs and have very short crops the present season yet in the face of a very considerable shortness of supply Liverpool quotations of Wheat are no higher to-day than they were a year ago This anomalous state of the European markets must be the result of a gigantic bear movement aided by very heavy shipments of Flour and Wheat from New York by steamer and the comparative ease and expedition in obtaining prompt supplies by aid of steam and telegraph This state of things must however be of short duration for as the season progresses and the wants and necessities of the people become fully known prices must inevitably advance both in England and France

Puget Sound Commerce

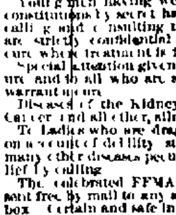
TO THE UNFORTUNATE.
NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,



623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL San Francisco Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases such as Gonorrhœa Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe and has resumed practice at his Dispensary 623 Kearney street, corner of Commercial San Francisco where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him
The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering

Horrible D[illegible]

How many thousands of persons both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation the [illegible] suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his special study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz. Sallow countenance dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head ringing in the ears noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confusion of vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks

Marriage

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief
DR. GIBBON is responsible and will give to every patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Cured at Home

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon, stating symptoms, length of time the disease has [illegible] and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the [illegible] with full and plain directions By [illegible] Ten Dollars coin in registered letter through the Post office or through Wells, Fargo & Co, a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union All communications strictly confidential

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates [illegible] the unwary Some of the self-styled [illegible] names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other [illegible] are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, news carriers intelligence office keepers etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry. It will cost you nothing, and may save you many [illegible] for, as advertising physicians in eight [illegible] out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles certificates, pretended patients' letters etc. Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he [illegible] to cure
Address DR. J F GIBBON 623 Kearney st corner Commercial San Francisco Postoffice Box 1,957.
REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.
Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the DAILY OREGONIAN
